THAT MINISTERIAL SHOOTING CASE.—It will be remembered that the Durham Tobacco Plant, a paper that is not in the habit of falling into errors, published an article to the effect that our Brother Hufham, associate editor of the Biblical corder, had shot at and killed two negroes in this city. The article has been generally copied by the State press. We therefore think that the press should copy the following letter of Bro. Hufham stoacitizen of Charlotte, being a plain and we might say a characteristic denial:

"If your city papers have copied that absurd story about my having killed two negroes with a rifle for stealing a log, please get them to make an editorial correction. There isn't a shadew of foundation for it. I never had a hog stolen from me, and I have never shot at any human being. I haven't fired a rifle for twelve years, or a gun of any sort nearly two years. I do not at all understand how the senseless report got started. Four or five years ago, I tried to shoot a chicken at home, and it has been a standing joke with my wife ever since how much ammunition I wasted, and how I failed to get the chicken after all.

A VEXED QUESTION SETTLED.— In the House yesterday, Mr. Moring, of Chatham, Chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Election, submitted a report of the action of said committee in regard to the right of Appleton Oaksmith, Esq., the Representative from Carteret county, to a seat on the floor of the House. It will be remembered that after the district of the Market of the House of election of Mr. Oaksmith, a report was current that he was ineligible to the office, on account of his being a citizen of Great Britain, and not a haturalized citizen of the United States. The rumor was taken up by the press, and thus heralded to the four corners. In consequence of these rumors, Major A. M. Erwin introduced a resolution in the House calling for this investigation. On his motion yesterday the voluminous report was read embracing all the testimony pro and con. The evidence showed that Mr. Oaksmith was a native of the State of Maine, that prior to the war, he settled in South Carolina and removed to New York in 1860; that when the war broke out he came through the lines and cast his fortures with those of his Southern friends and was a good Confederate; that at the close of the war he thought it prudent for his safety to leave the country and did locate in Englan I. Through motives enused by business complications, not recessary to mention, it became necessary for him to secure naturalizapapers and becom a citizen of England; that he returned to this country and formally renounced his allegiance to Great Britain ; that he became a citizen of Carteret county in 1872, ownrs real and personal estate in said county and pays poll tax,

The report recommended that Mr. Oaksmith be allowed to hold his Major Erwin moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and the same passed unanimously. Thus ended the diffliculty and settles positively the vexed question.

* RESOLUTIONS! Jeroom

Mr. Mills, a joint resolution to pay to the Insane Asylum an indebtedness of $7,000 that it had fneurred within the last two years above the annual appropriations. Referred.

House resolution, asking the Supreme Court its opinion in reference to the suprementation of the formulation of the formula ference to the validity of the Constitutional Amendments adopted in Mr. Morehead offered the following substitute : Whereas, Numerous amendments to the Constitution have been pro-posed and several proposed amend-ments were inclosed in our bill;

Whereas, Some of the Judges and many members of the Bar of the State are of opinion that each amendment should be proposed in a separate bill; therefore, that there may be no doubt as to the constitutionality of any amendment which may adopted,

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the Committee on Constitutional Reform report in separate bills such of the proposed amend-ments as they may recommend for adoption.

Mr. Morehead stated that they ought not to ask the Supreme Court for an opinion, as in his opinion that Court would not and ought not to express an opinion, unless upon a case regularly before it. He did not believe that the amendment of the Constitution lieve that the amendment of the Constitution by the Legislative method was practical—its provisions were so vague, conflicting and indefinite, that the Supreme Court could not agree as to its proper construction. There had already, in six years, been more questions of construction before the Supreme Court than there had been as to the other than there had been as to the other Constitutions of the State since it was a colony. That the cost of amend-ing by Legislatures was as much as the cost of a Convention. But if the General Assembly should under-take to amend by the Legislative method, then the adoption of his resolution was necessary that there might be no question as to the vali-dity of such amendments as should

RULES SUSPENDED. On motion of Mr. Erwin, the re-port of the Committee on Privileges and Elections in regard to the right of the Representative from Carteret, Mr. Oaksmith, to his sent on this floor was read. The report is quite

by the Committee. The report closed with an expression of opinion to the effect that the Committee were clearly satisfied that Mr. Oaksmith was fairly entitled to his seat. Mr. Erwin said that as the intro-ducer of the resolution he desired to state that from the reports that had reached his ear, and from what he had read in the public press, he was satisfied that there existed a doubt in the minds of the people, as toMr.Oak-smith's right to a seat on this floor. smith's right to a seat on this floor. And as a representative of the people, sent here to protect their interests in this branch of the General Assembly, he conceived it, to be his duty to call for an investigation of this matter. He had no personal feeling against the member from Carteret, so far from it that he was indeed much pleased with the report of the Committee and moved its adoption.

Mr. Moring, as Chairman of the Committee explained to the satisfac-tion of the House the reasons that induced them to make the report now before the House.

The vote was taken and the report was unanimously adopted. ifouse resolution introduced by Mr. Foote in regard to the death of the late Gov. Tod R. Caldwell, came up as the special order for I o'clock.

Mr. Walker offered a substitute for the resolution of Mr. Foote, which was adopted.

The resolution as adopted, reads:

WHEREAS, Since the close last General Assembly, Hon. Tod R. Caldwell, at that time the Chief Executive of our State, was stricken by the hand of death whilst in the discharge of the duties of his high office; And, whereas, it is meet and proper that this General Assembly, as a coordinate branch of the State government should pay the fullest respect to the memory of one who occupied the highest position of honor and trust within the gift of this State; Therefore, be it resolved, by the General Assemby, that in the death of the late Governor Tod R. the widow of the deceased a copy of these resolutions, with an expression of our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in her great bereavement.

Mr. Foote, after stating that he much preferred the adoption of the original resolutions offered by himself, proceeded to culogise in handsome and fitting terms the great worth of the late lamented Governor.

On motion of Mr. Spears, the House then adjourned in respect to the memory of the late Hon. Tod R. Caldwell. At 12 o'clock the bill to amend the charter of the Carolina Central Rail-way was taken up. The provisions of this bill were given a few days ago, therefore we will not repeat.

Mr. McRae said he was aware of the fact that when bills of this character were brought before the House, members generally regarded them with extreme caution and suspicion. He was pleased to see it, but the would endeavor to show that this bill only contemplated to advance the interest of the State of North Carolina in its great work of internal improvement. He said he was in nowise interested. as his section was far remote from this line of railway, but as a North Carolinian, identified with its every interest, he would certainly favor any proposition from a foreigner who came of his own accord to aid in building up the material interest of the State. This corporation, of which Mr. Matthews, of New York, was the principal stockholder, only asked certain powers, that he could not see was detrimental to the State or people, in order to complete the Car-olina Central Railway to Sheiby. He hoped the bill would pass and no bjection be urged.

Mr. Tate said that the Senate had appointed a committee of investigation into the affairs of this railroad: certain charges of a grave character had been preferred against the par-ties that desired legislation, and he thought it highly improper in this House to pass upon the legislation proposed until the result of that committee was known. He than fore moved to postpone the further consideration of the bill till the 1st Monday in February, and be made the special order for 12 o'clock on that Mr. McRae opposed the motion to postpone. He thought that foreigners who come within our borders with heavy capital to invest in aid of Internal Improvements should receive every consideration at our hands. These parties who had already invescommittee was known. He there-ted miliions for this purpose desired this needed legislation at once.

Mr. Oaksmith said it was with reluctance that he rose to make any remarks on railroads, as he had been falsely charged with being interested in certain railroad schemes. He desired to state now, that he was in no wise connected with any railroad scheme or enterprise in the State of North Carolina, but as the represenrests are identified with railroads, &c. he certainly would not hesitate to raise nis voice against any movemen that would endanger their interests.

He referred to four gigantic schemes that he believed would be brought before the present Assembly. He did not like the bill proposed; thought the first section rather ambigious and somewhat dangerous, and would therefore favor the motion of Mr. Tate, to postpone.

Mr. McRae was willing to withdraw the first section of the bill as so much objection had been raised.

Mr. Mendenhall objected to the

sent time, even with the first section of the bill withdrawn, and advo cated postponement.

Mr. Staples said it was with regret that he was compelled to oppose any bill offered by his friend Mr. Mc Rae, yet in this instance he though there was sufficient cause for its post voluminous, containing the examina-tion in full of all the evidence taken ponement. He discussed the merits of the bill, at some length.

consideration of the bill at the pre-

it was and opposed any postponement After further discussion the vote was taken and Mr. Tate's motion to postpone prevailed.

JORDAN STONE, Manager.

WE REGRET that our remarks, made some days since, under the caption of "Cantwell the costly" have been deemed to reflect upon the gentlemen of the Democratic party in the House, who participated in the debate. Nothing was further from our intention. We intended to fix the blame for the cost of an entirely useless discussion upon the Republican minority, which through its representative, Mr. TRIVETT, compelled the discussion by the introduction of an obnoxious resolution.

S. S. COX.

We join our valued contemporary, the Wilmington Star, in the declaration that the New York Herald was in error, when it stated that the gentleman, whose name heads this article would not be likely to command the support of the Southern members of the 44th Congress for Speaker of the House of Representatives, "because there has never been any tincture of Bourbonism in Mr. Cox's Democracy" and "because he was one of the earliest members of his party to accept the political results of the war.

The people of the Southern States are not themselves Bourbons in politics; and they are ready to give their support to any honest, honorable, capable Democrat, who may seek position, without regard to his past upon politics growing out of the war. What we ask and all we ask is moral worth, mental capacity and present faithful allegiance to the great principles of which the Democratic party of the nation is the only exponent.

Between Messrs. Cox, KERR and the many other gentlemen, mentioned in connection with the position, we have no decided preference. What we have said is not in advocacy of Mr. Cox's claims, but in vindication of the Southern Democracy from an unjust intimation. We are satisfied that the new Speaker, whoever he may be, will be a gentleman and a patriot, which, by synonym, may read an outspoken and approved Democrat.

THE PUBLIC DEBT-BANKS. BANKING, &C.

In accordance with the announcement made yesterday, we publish herewith a second communication from our correspondent "North Carolinian," upon finance and kindred subjects.

As we have heretofore stated, we give these letters publication in order to afford our readers the product of the best thought and deepest research of those, who have given these matters investigation, that assistance may be afforded those who seek a solution of the financial embarrassment, which so seriously hinder the return of the people of the State to their old-time prosperity and content. We take this occasion to invite our friends to this occasion to invite our friends to plies or improving his property, by use the column of the News for the trader, artizan and business man expression of their views upon all matters that affect the material or ting in their observance of any law intellectual progress of our people :

For the Daily News. MR. EDITOR:—In my former communication upon the adjustment of the public debt, passage of usury law, and bank circulation. I merely mapped out the idea, instead of going into exact figures, as I now propose briefly to do. Not to be misunderstood, I would state that I am not opposed to a law restricting the rate of interest, coupled with heavy forfeitures to make it operative. But I lay it down as a fundamental axiom, that the usury law and increased circulation must go hand in hand, to make the law effective and render its violation unnecessary as well as impracticable. The rate of interest before the war was six per centum per annum; the bank circulation of the State of North Carolina in 1862, as shown in the Comptroller of Currency's reports of 1872 to Congress, was five millions two hundred and eighteen thousand five hundred and ninety-eight dollars ($5,218,598) making the circulation five dollars and twenty-six c nts ($5.26) per capita. Then money was, and had been for years, easily attainable from the banks; the farmer could readily obtain loans, on which to make his crop, payable out of the crop when made, without extra commissions to merchants or others for carrying; the merchant found no difficulty, each season, in borrowing to buy Lis stock with; and so, with all branches of business and trade. The reason is plain—then money was sufficiently abundant for the wants of the people, and not so plentiful as to depreciate its value. The circulation answered all the wants of the State, and passed readily or at a slight discount beyond her limits.

From the same report (Comptroller of Currency 1872,) we see that the bank circulation, in North Carolina, 1872, outstanding and authorized was one million seven hundred and fifty-three thousand, four hundred and three thousand, four hundred and twenty dollars ($1,753,420.) This mark you, is the utmost limit authorized, not the amount in actual circulation. The actual circulation was one million, five hundred and forty-four thousand four hundred and twenty dollars ($1,544,420,) leaving a deficiency in circulation of three millions six hundred and seventy-four thousand one hundred and seventy eight dollars ($3,674,178,) seven years after the war, when the population as stated in the same report was one milion and seventy-one thousand three hundred and sixty-one ($1,071,381,) against nine hundred and ninety-two thousand six hundred and twenty-two dollars (992,622,) in 1872,a diminution of circulation of three million six hundred and seventy-four thousand one hundred and seventy-eight dollars ($3,674,178,) with an increase of population of seventy-eight thousand, seven hundred and thirty-nine. This amount of circulation per capita was in 1862, five dollars and twenty-six cents and in 1872, one dollar and sixty cents! Here we have a strange state of affairs, a State growing in popula-tion, and yet the means of trade reduced over three and a half millions of dollars, and the average amount per capita reduced from five dollars and twenty six cents to one dollar and sixty two cents. Is it strange, that under this condition, interest rates should run up to 12, 18 or 20 per cent per annum? How could it be otherwise, until the evil is remedied by increasing the values of currency. and restoring it at least to what it was before the war, though even that limit, when taking into consideration the growth of population, increase of manufactures, and trade and business generally, would fall ments of the people. We will admit, as we desire this article to be perfectly fair, that there is now in addition to the limited circulation, a large greenback or govern ment circulation, but then, we had before the war, in addition to our own bank circulation, the issues of Virginia banks on our Northern borders, and issues of Tennessee banks in our Mountain country, making in the aggregate, a large, not larger amount of circulation than the whole amount of greenbacks and outside National bank circulation now floating in our State.

far short of the wants and require-

So we are forced back to our position, that there is a scarcity of cir-culation in our State. The evil cannot be remedied under the National bank system (a system to which we have no special objection, if run as me of the means of supplying currency, and not as a monopoly.) We had evidence of the working of this ystem when unsupported by institutions of more liberal issue, in the panie last fall, a panie for want of more paper money, a paper money

Under the old system of North Carolina, the banks were allowed to issue three to one on their capital but few went to that limit. This circulation was protected by the capital paid in, by a per centage of one third on the circulation held in gold or silver coin, or exchange, and by the values received by the banks in exchange for the circulation issued. And no State had a better regulated or better secured currency than North Carolina. Expansive when the necessity arose, with power of contraction, when the demands of trade slacked

The evil of searcity of circulation can be remedied by return to the old paths. We have a few banks chartered since the war, with power of issue, but the National law has stood in their way, or apparently so, as the constitutionality of a tax, not uni-form, has yet to be decided, and they have availed themselves of the privi-lege to only a limited extent.

Now let the Legislature request its Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to have repealed all odious and discrimina-ting restriction on State institutions. And by a free banking law, open the way for new institutions, like the few now in existence with all the powers and privileges of the old line of banks.

Should Congress not repeal the discriminating tax, then let the question of taxation, so far as the banks and general government are concern. ed, be left to the parties interested-Let the money issued by our banks, whether taxable by the United States or not, be the money of our State, and let it be received in payment of all State dues. For the protection of the holders, require in addition to security already offered, in the way of capital and value received in exchange for circulation issued a deposit of thirtythree and one-third per cent, of funded State of North Carolina bonds with the Public Treasurer; and if the debt is not funded, then bonds issued under acts passed before the war equivalent to such a reduction. You will then find money easily attainable by the farmer for making his crop, by the builder and contrac tor in carrying out his work, by the manufacturer in obtaining his supgenerally, at as low rates as before the war, and all interests co-opera-restricting the price of money. These views are based, Mr. Editor, on facts and figures. We know what So let the measures go hand in hand: with restriction of price of money gives us increased circulation, that the law may be operative, its violation. its violation unnecessary and impracticable, and money be readily commanded by every North Carolinian.

The Republican journals regard the policy of inaction as, at the present cricis, unwise and suicidal. The De-mocracy can afford to sit still and wait—for to them, as to the patient Mr. Micawber, something at last has "turned up" and all they have to do is to accept the good sent, and when the time comes make the most of it. But the Radical Republicans find themselves compelled to act and to act quickly, and a more discordant and demoralized set of men to do anything, well, it would be impossi-ble to find. It is certain that internal improvement of the country will not be a medicine that will work quickly enough for the internal improvement of the party. On the finances they are between the two horns of a di-lemma. This session of Congress will have an important bearing on the next Presidency, and to satisfy the country is more than the dominant party can do.

The comments of the English press on the President's Message show that the leading journals fully ap-preciate the American situation. The London Times declares that the political position in which the President is placed at this time reduces the importance of the Message within very narrow limits, which is tantamount to saying that as the recent elections have shown the President to be unpopular with his own party, as well as the country, his suggestions are entitled only to the credit which they derive from their own intrinsic merits. intrinsic merits.

POLONIUS' ADVICE TO

It will be remembered by Shakespeara readers in the play of Hamlet, the advice of Polonius to his son Laertes, who was lust in the act of leaving Denmark for a journey to France, wherein he said:

"Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy but not expressed in fancy; rich not gangy—for the apparel of proclaims the man," dc., dc.

Ministers from the pulpit have said that every young man should paste in his hat the remarks in full of Polonius.

WEIKEL, the Merchant Tailor. in endorsing all that has been said on the subject, would remark that he is better prepared than ever to supply to his numerous friends and customers 'archits' just at those mentioned. "Rich, but not 'andy,' and no's o'costly" as you might suppose. His stock of

THE CIVIL BIGHTS BILL.-The civil rights bill will be pushed forward this session by its most earnest supporters, including some members of the delegation from Massachusetts. It is thought by friends of the bill that its chances of passage is more favorable than last session, and more favorable than they would have been if the Republicans had been successful in the elections. There is now, they say, nothing to lose, policially, by the passage of the bill, which on the other hand would consolidate all the old anti-slavery vote, and it would be a very embarrassing political subject for the Democratic House of Representatives. The Democrats would, it is claimed, lose votes by leaving the bill unrepealed, and they would lose, on the other hand, by any attempt to repeal it. The friends of the bill think that its passage would be one of the wisest political measures of the session .- New York Times.

While this enterprise is not conducted was established by the Grand Lodge of the Transit of Venus.

LONDON, Dec. 11th .- The Times in an editorial says that a telegram which we are enabled to publish, shows that at Nagasaki, although the weather was unfavorable, the transit observations were made in an admirable and exhaustive manner which the American astronomers, skilled in expeditionary work know well how to apply. We fear the ob-servations at Prof. Hall's station are useless, being made by the Halleyon method, hence the careful determination indicated by the American telegram becomes of enormous im-

Elections of Circuit Judge in South Carolina - Great Excitement -Reed Elected.

CHARLESTON, Dec. 11.-The election of Judge of the Charleston Circuit by the State Legislature, which took place to-day, attracted much attention, because both candidates of procminence were Republicans and one of them was actively supported and the other opposed by Governor Chamberlain.

The Chamberlain candidate was Hon. J. P. Reed, a Carolinian of some ability and distinction, who recently joined the Republican party. The anti-Chamberlain candidate was W. J. Whipper, a notorious black politician. In the caucus last night Gov. Chamberlain demanded that an able and honest man be chosen, and denounced Whipper as incapable and corrupt, and urged the election

There was much confusion and Chamberlain was bitterly abused by Whipper and other Republican leaders. This morning the Whipper party were confident of winning, but the Conservatives seeing the Republican Administration attacked, voted in a body for Reed, who was elected on the first ballot

The Tilton-Beecher Case. NEW YORK, Dec. 11th .- In the Beecher-Tilton suit, the Court decided to grant the Bill of Particulars. The Court said the law imposes no impossibility, and does not require from the plaintiff the designation of a precise day, at hazard of the failure of justice, if he fails to prove the act upon the precise day named. It is sufficient, if he designates the day, with such reasonable appropriations, so that the defendant is fairly apprised of the charges. In view of the affidavit of the plaintiff read on this motion, it will be sufficient for him to state in the Bill of Particulars, to be furnished, that two acts of the criminal intimacy alleged took place on the tenth and seventeenth days of October, 1868, were committed on or about those days at either one or the other of the places mentioned in affidavit, or as suggested by one of the counsel for the defendant. It may be regarded as sufficient to say that these acts were committed during the month of October, 1868. Such statement fairly acquaints the defendant with the charge he is to

There were also a number of Confederate soldiers killed and their remains were interred on a tarm near the fort where

A few weeks ago friends of the Lost Cause, headed by Rev. J. B. Averitt, pastor of Grace P. E. Church, situa-ted about two miles above Silver Springs, on Seventh street road, resolved to gather up the remains and remove them to the above named Church yard for interment, and steps were immediately taken to carry the plan into effect and progressed so satisfactorily as to be executed to-day.

On Tuesday last, the bodies to the number of seventeen were exhumed and placed in six plain coffins and beare to the aburch yard where they borne to the church yard, where they were this morning placed on a bier in front of the church, and covered with a black pall, on which was stitched a neat cross of white muslin. The remains were all unknown, excepting one body, that of James B. Bland, of Highland county, Va., a member of the Sixty-Second Virginia Mounted Infantry of Imboden'

Brigade.
In the enclosure between the front of the church and the street, a grave large enough for the six coffins, had been dug for the final resting place of the remains, and a large evergre cross was placed at the head of it.

At the services at 9 o'clock, quite a large number of Washingtonians assembled at the corner of 9th street and Pennsylvania Avenue, and tak-ing carriages, proceeded to the church about eight miles from the city to witness the ceremony. A large num-ber from Rockville and the country round about there, were also present to the number of about three hun-dred persons, including many ladies. At 11 o'clock Bishop Pinckney and Revs. Averitt Williamson and Buck, entered the church reciting the service, commencing at "Lord let me know the end of my days," &c.

After portions of the Scriptures had been read, the choir sang: "I would not stay," which was followed by a prayer and another hymn, after which the audience proceeded to the grave in front of the church to inter the remains. The following gentlemen acting as pall-bearers: Gen. Cook, Henry Garnett, Dr. Young, Dr. Boyle, Wm. Harmon, G. T. Howard, Gen. P. M. B. Young, J. W. Drew, Col L. Q. Lamar, Col. Herbert, Wm. Stone and Col. R. Fleming. The coffins were lowered into the graves, wreaths being placed upon each one, that one containing the remains of Bland being placed at the north end to enable the friends to find it if they ever desire to move the body.

Rev. Mr. Averit read the burial service, when the assemblage repaired to the rectory, a few yards distant where Dr. A. Y. P. Garrett, of this city, delivered the oration. He congratulated those present that the time had come when they could do justice to the memories of their friends, and perform such ceremonies unmolested, and claimed that they should not perform the act coldly and with subdued spirits. He alluded to the causes of the war and justified the South for their action. He once alluded to the willingness of the South to take up arms to defend their homes from invasion, when a voice in the crowd said: "And we are still willing to do it Dr." He alluded to the South as our people and Jeff Davis as our President. The address occupied about half an hour in livery. After the oration, Bishop Pinckney read a short poem, full of tender allusions to the dead, which was well received. A vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Garrett and Bishop Pinckney and a copy of the address and poem asked for publication in book form. The bearers then proseeded to the grave and filled it with earth and the assemblage dispersed.

LIQUID ENAMEL PAINT.

BRADLEY'S PATENT

MADE FROM Pure : h te Lead, Linseed Oil and Zinc, and Always Ready for Use.

READ THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIALS:

From Prof. W. G. Simmons, Wake Forest College, North Carolina. WAKE FOREST COLLEGE, N. C., October 4, 1873. Mr. C. P. Knight—Dear Sir: We have for several months been using your Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint on our College Building, and are well pleased with it. Though it was applied by one having no experience in such work, yet we have a good job. We shall continue to use it—believing that in point of economy, durability and facility of application, it is superior to any other pigment offered in the market.

W. G. SIMMONS.

From Messrs. Engelhard & Saunders. Editors and Proprietors Journal. WILMINGTON, N. C., December, 26, 1873. We desire to call especial attention to the advertisement of "Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint." We can recommend it from a knowledge of its merits. Some of the employees of this office having purchased some of this paint from Mr. C. P. Knight, of Baittmore, have us-d it and speak in the highest terms of it, after a tr.al of several months. While it is as durable as ordinary paint, it has a much finer finish, and its cost and convenience will recommend it to all in need of paint.

From 8. McGill, M. D.

Mr. C. P. Knight—Bir: The paint came safe to hand as ordered, 2 kegs, 5 gallon each, and 3 buckets, 1 gallon each. I a practice was sisck, I dit the job myself. Two weeks (not constant work) completes _e house, two c ats; the last coat I applied thick, and it is now generally conceded that, for "enamel," like hardness, and body and harmony of cotors, there is not a handsomer | bb in the place. I have saved sixty-five dollars by the operation—which is an item just now with the Southern people. It should be generally adopted in this State. Any country lad can apply it. I have never dabbled in such stock as "testimonials," but I feel so forcibly the great adaptability of your "Enamel Paint" to the wants of our people—in excellency of material, in beauty of color, and in the fact of its being "ready mixed," that I give you permission (if it is desirable to you) to make what use you think proper of this letter.

Very respectfully and truly.
